

NAVY TO REJECT BOYS UNDER AGE

In order to cut down the number of under-age enlistments and do away with the trouble which results from young men entering the navy without the consent of their parents, recruiting officers have been instructed to accept no more applicants for enlistment below the age of eighteen years, except in the cases where boys below seventeen have been promised when they reached that age, with consent of their parents, they would be recruited in the navy.

This order will revoke the orders heretofore in force which permitted young men between the age of seventeen and eighteen, provided they had the consent of their parents, to join the navy.

Navy officials said today the order would result in securing older and more experienced men for the service and would do much to cut down the large number of immature youths who are seeking the navy as a profession.

TO GRADE PUPILS BY PSYCHOLOGY TESTS

A special committee of the National Research Council, after experimenting with twenty psychological tests on 5,000 children, has decided upon two series which will be devised and published for general use some time next year.

The tests are founded upon the mental examinations given army recruits during the recent war, and are being selected with a view of facilitating school surveys and grade classification. Under the mental-test system surveys and classification may be made without greatly disturbing the school organizations.

The investigating committee is composed of Dr. R. M. Yerkes, chairman, and Dr. M. E. Haggerty, of the University of Minnesota; Dr. L. M. Terman, of Stanford University; Dr. E. L. Thorndike, of Teachers College, Columbia University; and Dr. G. M. Whipple, of the University of Michigan.

Footlights Lure Billie Burke Back to Stage

Billie Burke, the famous stage and screen star, who has returned to the scene of her former triumphs after a successful period in the movies, and who will be seen here next week in the London success, "Caesar's Wife."

BILLIE BURKE BACK ON SPEAKING STAGE

Billie Burke just can't stay away from the speaking stage. Do you wonder, when she has such a big personal following, such a loyal public, such a multitude of people who admire her artistry and adore her personality?

Their existence and the fact that she revels in acting and in playing in person to her audiences is what has brought her back to the playhouse in Somerset Maugham's London success, "Caesar's Wife," in which she will be seen in the stellar and little role at the National Theater next week.

Miss Burke was America's favorite in high comedy and society farce when she left the speaking stage for the screen and marriage and motherhood. She was at the height of her fame when the cinema called to her with its enormous income and she soon dominated this field, her charm making her a great screen personality and winning millions of admirers.

Miss Burke is a star who studies, who thinks, and above all who lives. She has experienced all the fine, up-building experiences of a girl winning fame and fortune, of a woman happily married and a devoted mother, of a woman highly placed socially and blessed with leisure, artistic surroundings and the innate liking for the best. She has grown spiritually and artistically since quitting the playhouse and she returns with beautiful and more than ever ambitious for the best in the theater.

"I am so glad that I am again in personal touch with the public," she says. "Intelligent men and women come to see intelligent plays and their applause and liking buoy one up like the warm ocean at Palm Beach. There is always the incentive to do better than one's best. I like dialogue and situations and scenery and footlights and dressing rooms and the old stage doormen and—well, I just love the theater. I am mad about it in fact. It has been wonderful to me, and I mean always to do my best and to strive for distinction. My debt to the theater is so great that I love it everything outside my home life."

MERCHANT MARINE GAINS 1,400 SHIPS

NEW YORK, Nov. 12.—More than 1,400 freighters flying the American flag have been added to the commercial shipping of the United States through resources created by the war in the year since the signing of the armistice. These ships are today carrying on trade with every country of the world, including Germany, Austria and Turkey.

The detailed monthly statement of the United States Shipping Board for November 1 shows that 1,320 new ships built and purchased during the war, are under allocation to American shipping firms. There also are fifty-seven former German and five Austrian freighters now in American service, title to which is held by the shipping board. In addition there is the largest fleet of former German passenger liners undergoing reconditioning from army transport service preparatory to being put into American trade by American shipping concerns.

BUENOS AIRES FIRM SUES U. S. OFFICERS

John Burke, treasurer of the United States, and Francis P. Garvin, alien property custodian, have been named defendants in a suit filed in the District Supreme Court by MacLaren & Gentles, Inc., Ernesto A. Bunge and J. Born, resident of Buenos Aires, Argentina Republic, for the return of $547,859.69, which they allege the alien property custodian took over on the ground that their firm was erroneously adjudged an enemy under the trading with the enemy act.

The plaintiffs declare Mr. Bunge is a citizen of the Argentine Republic, and Mr. Born a citizen of Belgium, and that the only other person interested in their firm is Alfredo Hirsch of Buenos Aires. Plaintiffs say they have taken the steps as prescribed by the law for the return of their property, but that so far no order has been signed by the President to have their money refunded.

TO BRING JEWISH ORPHANS TO U. S.

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 12.—The Jewish relief committee in session here today plans to bring to this country 150,000 Jewish orphans. Only the sanction of the State Department is needed for the plan to be carried out.

Special ships would be chartered to bring the children here to be adopted by Jewish families or cared for by Jewish organizations. In the event the Government will not allow the immigration, the ships will be used to carry food to Europe.

The convention adopted plans by Abraham Zucker to establish a bureau through which relatives in this country could send money to the needy, for a general relief fund to establish organizations in Palestine and eastern Europe, and for a constructive fund by which money will be loaned to artisans to enable them to resume their trades and become self-supporting.

MAYOR CONVICTED ON FRAUD CHARGE

INDIANAPOLIS, Nov. 12.—Mayor Rollin H. Bunch, of Muncie, Ind., and Prosecuting Attorney H. G. Murphy were among seven alleged swindlers found guilty here yesterday of conspiracy to use the mails to defraud.

The seven men were part of a group of twenty-four indicted in connection with the Muncie case, which involved more than twenty alleged swindle cases and a total of $150,000. All other defendants had pleaded guilty.

The defendants were charged with having lured prospective victims to Muncie on the pretext of selling them land at absurdly low prices and then persuading them to bet on fake prize fights.

During the bouts, according to testimony, one of the boxers apparently would be injured and the victims would be warned to leave town at once to prevent their connection with the fight being learned by the police. In each case the money bet on the fight was that originally intended for use in the purchase of land.

The alleged swindlers, several of whom testified that they received protection from Mayor Bunch, Prosecutor Murphy, an police officers, were arrested by Federal agents after operating for a year in Muncie, it was declared in testimony.

George Fulk, of Bethany, Ill., had put up $10,000 with the defendants, according to evidence, and had returned to his home for more, when his bankers became suspicious of the men with whom Fulk was dealing and communicated with Federal agents here. Investigation of Fulk's case led to the arrest and prosecution of the twenty-four men.

AMERICAN RETURNS MARBLE THAT WAS STOLEN IN ROME

ROME, Nov. 12.—An American named Harold Woodbury Parsons has returned to the Italian government a marble horse's head of ancient Greek sculpture stolen from the Roman forum in 1912, which Mr. Parsons had bought, not knowing that it had been taken from the forum by thieves. All attempts to trace the sculpture had failed.

Harold W. Parsons, of Boston, Mass., is at present a resident of Rome. It is probable that he is the person referred to in the above.

LONDON, Nov. 12.—"General Yudenitch's anti-Bolshevik army is fighting its way in the direction of Gathina, against superior forces," said a Central News dispatch from Helsinki today, quoting an official statement given out at General Yudenitch's headquarters.

A Bolshevik raid on the frontier of Finland was repulsed, the dispatch added.

Gathina is thirty miles southwest of Petrograd.

SMOOT CHAMPIONS MORMON CHURCH

Pronouncing polygamy as dead, Senator Reed Smoot of Utah has presented a defense for the Mormon church. He aims to present the membership in its "true light" to the people of the United States.

A recent statement by an English author that the Mormons of England were inducing girls to move to Utah provoked the defense by the Utah Senator.

"The church has nothing to conceal," Smoot said. "I want the people of the United States to know that as far as polygamy is concerned, it is dead, and scandal mongers in the future must find some other hobby to ride."

"All I ask is that the Mormon church and its adherents be judged by the fruit of the tree. No person during the war without coming to the conclusion that no more moral people live on this earth."

MINISTER DENOUNCES STAGE.

NEW YORK, Nov. 12.—The Rev. John Roach Straton refused to attend an actors' meeting because the stage is an aid to evil. Four other ministers who attended said he was wrong.

Your Cousin's Mother-in-Law's Daughter

Told us that she has been using Instant Coffee for over a year for its convenience only, but since she tried the Faust Instant she uses it not alone for its convenience but for its quality.

She says that she can make a better cup of coffee at less cost and with less work out of the Faust Instant than she ever could make in the regular way, and she had always been under the impression that she could make as good a cup of coffee the regular way as any one could.
